MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

As we celebrate the opening of The Olsen Family Patient Care Pavilion, I am thrilled to introduce you to a truly special feature: our breathtaking Living Wall.

More than just a beautiful addition, this vibrant tapestry of nature serves a vital purpose. It enhances the aesthetic appeal of our new space, creating a more welcoming and calming environment for our patients and their families. Rooted in biophilic design, this living ecosystem works to improve air quality and has the potential to reduce stress and anxiety, fostering a more tranquil healing atmosphere.

Beyond its practical benefits, the Living Wall embodies the very spirit of Deborah. Its continuous cycle of life, growth, and renewal mirrors the journey of our patients towards healthier lives. It symbolizes resilience, rebirth, and the second chances that compassionate medical care provides.

Maintaining this living testament to care requires ongoing support. Your generous contributions to Deborah Hospital Foundation will help us sustain this remarkable feature, ensuring it continues to provide comfort, inspiration, and a tangible connection to nature for all who enter our doors.

Thank you for your unwavering commitment to Deborah. Together, we are making a profound difference in the lives of our patients.

A NEW DAWN FOR DEBORAH:

Celebrating the Olsen Family Patient Care Pavilion

"I am deeply honored to be a part of Deborah's incredible legacy. Witnessing the tangible impact of this new Pavilion, knowing it will provide comfort and healing to so many, is truly humbling. My family and I believe in the vital work that Deborah does, and we are proud to support their continued evolution."—Greg Olsen

Below, Greg Olsen, cutting the ribbon at the dedication of The Olsen Family Patient Care Pavilion joined by our valued philanthropic supporters, distinguished public dignitaries, Deborah Board members, and senior executive leadership team.

On May 14th, nearly 200 donors and invited guests attended the dedication of The Olsen Family Patient Care Pavilion at Deborah Heart and Lung Center. This event marked a transformative moment for Deborah, representing a significant step forward in our commitment to providing world-class cardiac, pulmonary, and vascular care. The new building is a key part of Deborah100: The Project.

Jim Andrews, President and CEO of Deborah Heart and Lung Center, emphasized the importance of the expansion. "The Olsen Family Patient Care Pavilion is more than just a building; it represents a natural step in Deborah's evolution," he stated. "It embodies our dedication to people-centered care, providing an environment that promotes healing, dignity, and hope. This Pavilion will empower our exceptional clinical team to continue delivering the life-saving care that defines Deborah."

With the opening of the new pavilion, Deborah is elevating the inpatient experience through 36 private suites. These thoughtfully designed spaces reflect our commitment to personalized, comfortable, and safe care, aligning with the highest standards in healthcare. Each suite is equipped with sophisticated negative/positive air pressure systems, empowering our clinical team to provide optimal isolation for immunocompromised patients and effectively control infectious disease. The new patient floors embrace a wellness philosophy, centered on family involvement and a healing ambiance created by abundant natural light, soothing colors, and tactile elements. Features such as sound-dampening materials and enhanced natural light contribute to a more peaceful and restorative environment, potentially leading to shorter hospital stays. Loved ones will appreciate the convenience of a daybed/window seat, while patients can enjoy large picture windows overlooking the serene wooded campus, a personal flat-screen television, a private bathroom and shower, individual lighting controls, a cutting-edge adjustable medical bed, and secure storage. Medical necessities, including gases and advanced technology, are intentionally concealed to promote a calm and reassuring atmosphere for our patients.

This innovative campus expansion was made possible by a lead gift from Greg Olsen, the largest donor to Deborah100: The Campaign. The Pavilion is dedicated in his honor, acknowledging his significant impact on future patients and families.

Lem Burnham, Chairman, Board of Trustees of Deborah Heart and Lung Center, highlighted the collaborative effort behind the project. "Today, we celebrate not only a magnificent new facility but also the power of community and shared purpose," Dr. Burnham noted. "This Pavilion strengthens Deborah's position as a leading institution in cardiovascular and pulmonary care."

Gary Rubin, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Deborah Hospital Foundation, expressed gratitude for the philanthropic support of Deborah's mission. "The dedication of The Olsen Family Patient Care Pavilion is a testament to the transformative power of philanthropy," said Mr. Rubin. "This new facility will significantly enhance the patient experience, and we are deeply grateful for his friendship."

Naming opportunities remain for those wishing to have their legacies recognized at Deborah. Contact the Deborah Hospital Foundation at 609-893-0100 to learn more. Your contribution will help ensure Deborah's continued excellence in care for future generations.

PIONEERING CARDIAC INNOVATION:

Transforming Tricuspid regurgitation care

The success of the new Tricuspid Regurgitation program at Deborah Heart and Lung Center is a testament to the institution's commitment to innovation and people-centered care. This commitment is further bolstered by the invaluable support of the Deborah Hospital Foundation.

At Deborah Heart and Lung Center, a legacy of compassionate care intertwines seamlessly with a relentless pursuit of medical innovation. This commitment to advancing cardiovascular medicine is exemplified by the groundbreaking implementation of two new transcatheter-based technologies to treat this growing disease. The first technology is an edge-to-edge repair (T-TEER) procedure utilizing the TriClip™ system, a revolutionary approach to treating tricuspid regurgitation (TR). The second technology is a transcatheter tricuspid valve replacement (TTVR) using the newly approved EVOQUE™ device. Both procedures, executed with meticulous precision by Deborah's expert interventional cardiology team, involve the percutaneous delivery via a catheter guided by advanced imaging techniques to the tricuspid valve.

In the instance of TriClip™, the device's clip mechanism is deployed to approximate the valve leaflets, effectively reducing regurgitation. This meticulous repair restores proper blood flow, alleviating the heart's workload and mitigating the patient's symptoms. For EVOQUE™, the system introduces a transformative approach by completely replacing the malfunctioning tricuspid valve through a minimally invasive catheter-based procedure. This state-of-the-art technology offers new treatment for our patients with severe tricuspid disease, enhancing valve function and improving quality of life without the need for open-heart surgery.

“Both procedures have demonstrated a remarkable 100% technical success rate in all cases performed at Deborah,” affirms Muhammad Raza, MD, a leading interventional cardiologist at the institution. This achievement signifies not merely a technical triumph, but a profound advancement in patient outcomes, resonating deeply with those seeking relief from the debilitating effects of TR.

Tricuspid regurgitation, a condition characterized by the tricuspid valve's inability to close properly, results in the backflow of blood into the right atrium. This imposes a significant burden on the heart, leading to a cascade of symptoms including dyspnea, fatigue, peripheral edema, and, in severe cases, ascites. Historically, treatment options for TR have been limited, often requiring open-heart surgery with its associated risks and prolonged recovery. However, the Deborah Tricuspid Regurgitation program has ushered in a new era of minimally invasive intervention.

Dr. Raza elaborates on the profound impact of this innovation: “We have observed consistent and significant reductions in tricuspid regurgitation across all patients, transforming severe cases into trace or mild residual leakage. This is particularly transformative for patients with a history of heart failure and frequent hospitalizations. Our goal for the program is to drastically reduce readmission rates and substantially enhance our patients' overall quality of life.”

The minimally invasive nature of the TriClip™ and EVOQUE™ procedures translates to a remarkably swift recovery for patients. Many are discharged within 24 hours, allowing them to resume their daily activities with renewed vigor and improved cardiac function. This rapid recovery underscores the procedure's transformative potential, enabling patients to reclaim their lives with minimal disruption.

My heartfelt thanks and special request

“I’ll never forget their kindness—everyone in the hospital, and their personal commitment to making sure I could return to my family.”—Jim Gardinella

Hi, my name is Jim, and I’m a husband and father who cherishes every moment with my family. Not long ago, a serious health crisis threatened all of that. When I started experiencing chest pain and shortness of breath, I knew something was seriously wrong. Thankfully, my family doctor was familiar with the world-class expertise of Deborah Heart and Lung Center and referred me there immediately.

I was diagnosed with a complex heart condition requiring emergency double bypass surgery. Deborah’s renowned physicians and state-of-the-art technology gave me a second chance at life. I underwent the life-saving procedure, and thanks to Deborah, I’m back to doing what I love – fishing and spending precious time with my loved ones.

From the moment I walked through the doors, I felt like family. The entire team – doctors, nurses, and staff – provided not just expert medical care, but genuine compassion and concern. Deborah’s commitment to people-centered care is truly remarkable. The doctors focus on you as a whole person, not just your symptoms. They take the time to understand your individual needs, ensuring your treatment plan is tailored specifically for you.

Deborah provides this exceptional care without any out-of-pocket expense to patients – a truly incredible gift. And that’s why I’m writing to you today.

Join me in honoring the physicians who make Deborah such a special place. Your gift to the Deborah Hospital Foundation, no matter the size, will make a tremendous impact. It’s a way to express gratitude for the exceptional care received and ensure that Deborah can continue its life-saving mission for generations to come.

Your contribution helps Deborah invest in cutting-edge technology, attract world-class physicians, and maintain the highest standards of care. When you give to Deborah, you’re not just making a donation – you’re investing in an organization dedicated to saving lives.

Together, we can ensure that no patient ever faces a heart, lung, or vascular health crisis alone.

With heartfelt gratitude,

A Legacy of Leadership: Joseph Manni's Remarkable Career

After more than four decades of dedicated service, Joseph (Joe) Manni, former Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer (COO), has retired, leaving behind an indelible legacy of visionary leadership and transformative impact at Deborah Heart and Lung Center. His departure marks the culmination of an extraordinary career, one that has profoundly shaped the institution and positioned it for continued success in the years to come.

Joe's tenure at Deborah was characterized by a profound commitment to patient care, a dedication that permeated every aspect of his work. His proactive approach ensured that every individual received the highest quality of care, while his leadership inspired a culture of excellence throughout the organization.

His career trajectory at Deborah is a testament to his exceptional abilities and dedication. Beginning as Director of Materials Management he progressed to, Administrator of the Deborah Research Institute and Director of Support Services before assuming the role of COO at both the Center and the Foundation. This diverse experience provided him with a comprehensive understanding of the institution's operations, enabling him to guide Deborah's strategic growth and ensure the sustainability of its mission and vision.

In 1985, while at a Deborah event, Joe met Lori, a nurse working in the Surgical Intensive Care Unit (SICU). From this serendipitous meeting, Joe and Lori's love turned into over 35-years of marriage producing two amazing sons, Brandon and Ryan.

Beyond the formal duties of his position, Joe's leadership was defined by his personal connection with the Deborah community. He made everyone feel valued and empowered, mentoring countless individuals and inspiring a passion for excellence. His leadership went beyond strategic decisions—it fostered action, unity, and a lasting vision for Deborah Heart and Lung Center.

In recognition of his extraordinary contributions, Joe will be the honoree at the 2025 Red Tie Gala. This event will serve as a celebration of his remarkable career, his dedication to quality patient care, and his leadership abilities.

As he looks forward to spending more time with his family, pursuing personal interests, and embracing the joys of retirement, one thing remains certain: the impact he has had on Deborah will be remembered for years to come.

Debunking the myths

Every garden starts with a single seed—just like every gift sparks innovation at Deborah Heart and Lung Center. Your generosity fuels groundbreaking care. Every seed you plant, no matter how small, contributes to a powerful legacy of compassion.

Let's be real – the word “donation” can sometimes feel intimidating. You hear it, and suddenly, you're picturing a massive checkbook and a dizzying number of zeros. But here at Deborah Hospital Foundation, we want to change that perception. Because at its heart, philanthropy isn't about big numbers, it's about big hearts. It's about recognizing that even the smallest gesture can have a profound impact.

Whether you're giving a few dollars, volunteering your time, or simply sharing Deborah's story, you're making a tangible difference. You're becoming a vital part of our mission to provide world-class cardiac, vascular, and pulmonary care to everyone who needs it, with no out-of-pocket cost.

But we understand – there are myths out there that can make giving seem daunting. So, let's set the record straight:

Myth #1: Philanthropy is only for the wealthy.

Absolutely not! We all have the capacity to be philanthropists. As our Deborah Hospital Foundation Chairman wisely said, “Don't give till it hurts, give until it makes you feel good.” It's about giving what you can that matters.

Think of it as planting seeds. A single seed might seem small, but a garden full of them? That's where the magic happens. Your consistent support, no matter the size, creates a blooming garden for Deborah, enabling us to provide life-saving care year after year.

Myth #2: Donations go to overhead costs.

We hear this one a lot! Understand that there is always a cost to raise a dollar, there has to be. But at Deborah Hospital Foundation that cost is minimal – literally pennies on the dollar. The Foundation is committed to financial transparency and efficiency and has strict policies in place to ensure that your generous contributions go directly to what matters most: patient care. Our stellar Charity Navigator score of 100% with a Four-Star rating verifies our commitment to financial responsibility and trustworthiness.

Every dollar you give translates into direct support for those battling heart, lung, and vascular diseases. You're funding cutting-edge treatments, state-of-the-art equipment, and compassionate care that transforms lives. You can have complete confidence that your investment is making a real difference.

Myth #3: Only cash donations matter.

While financial support is essential, there are several ways to contribute to Deborah's mission. Volunteering your time, sharing your stories on social media, or simply telling a friend about our work – these acts of kindness are invaluable. They build community, raise awareness, and provide support that money simply can't buy.

Myth #4: You get nothing in return.

Think of your contribution to Deborah as a philanthropic investment. And like any good investment, it yields a powerful return. But this return isn't measured in dollars and cents. It's measured in lives saved, families remaining intact, with bright futures and hope restored.

When you give to Deborah, you're not just making a donation; you're making a profound investment in the health and well-being of your community. You're giving someone a second chance at life. You're offering assurance where there was once fear. And that, dear friends, is a return on investment that's truly priceless.

So, the next time you hear “Would you like to make a donation?” – at Deborah, remember it's not about a million-dollar check. It's about joining a community of caring individuals who are passionate about making a difference. It's about investing in lives and experiencing the profound joy of giving.

RONNIE'S BIG HEART:

A 50-year legacy of gaming for Deborah

As a young boy, Ronnie Friedman served coffee and collected tips during his mother's weekly bustling bingo nights. Little did he know, those early moments were sowing the seeds of a lifelong commitment to Deborah Hospital Foundation.

This is a story of Ronnie, a man whose dedication to Deborah has spanned over five decades, a testament to the power of one person's commitment to a cause greater than himself.

It began with Ronnie's mother, Annette, and her friend, Rose, who, after receiving life-saving open-heart surgery at Deborah, decided to give back. Their Suffolk, NY Chapter, fueled by gratitude, quickly became a cornerstone of Deborah's fundraising efforts. And when Annette and Rose could no longer lead the charge, Ronnie stepped forward, carrying the torch with a passion that has illuminated the path for 30 years.

"I remember the energy, the joy," Ronnie recalls, his voice filled with warmth. "Seeing my mother and Rose connect with everyone, it was something special. That feeling, that sense of community, it's what keeps me going."

Ronnie's dedication is more than just showing up. It's about adapting, innovating, and ensuring the chapter's continued success. He's seen bingo evolve from lap boards to computer screens, always finding ways to keep the games engaging and the funds flowing. He's built a family, a network of devoted volunteers, some of whom have been by his side for decades, sharing his commitment to Deborah's mission.

And what a mission it is: no out-of-pocket expense to the patient for care received within Deborah Heart and Lung Center.

Ronnie understands the impact firsthand. He knows that every dollar raised translates into life-saving treatments, advanced technology, and a future filled with hope for patients at Deborah.

Think about it: more than $3 million raised through bingo, a testament to Ronnie's leadership and the generosity of the community he's fostered. That's a legacy built on hard work, heart, and a genuine belief in the power of giving.

Even when faced with the challenges of a global pandemic, Ronnie and his team found a way to adapt, ensuring the games continued and the funds kept coming. They embraced new technology, expanded their reach, and emerged stronger than ever.

Ronnie's story is an invitation. It's a reminder that one person can make a profound difference. It's a call to action, to join him in supporting Deborah's vital mission.

Consider the impact of your own contribution. Your financial gift, no matter the size, will directly support Deborah's ability to provide world-class care, invest in cutting-edge research, and ensure that no one is denied the treatment they need.

Ronnie's commitment shows us what's possible. He's demonstrated that with dedication and a generous spirit, we can build a legacy of hope and healing. He's shown us the power of consistent support.

Join Ronnie in making a difference. Invest in Deborah. Invest in life.
